

HERDSA (Hong Kong) Awards Scheme Redesigning Student Learning Experience in Higher Education (RSLEIHE) 2021

Call for Proposal Submission

Opportunity for Student-Teacher Collaboration/Partnership

PROJECT BACKGROUND & AIMS

The RSLEIHE is a student award scheme established by HERDSA (Higher Education Research and Development Society of Australasia) Hong Kong Branch, aiming to create and share local examples of student-centred, student-initiated, future orientated teaching and learning experiences which can engage and empower students and directly meet their future needs in a meaningful manner.

THEME & SUB-THEMES

The main theme is: Learning in the Era of "New Normal": Post-Pandemic Learning. Students can propose any meaningful learning experiences which address the above-mentioned project aim. To hear voices from students on current innovations/challenges in higher education, below sub-themes are encouraged:

- Pedagogical Changes in Pandemic
- Alternative Assessment
- Holistic Competences/Graduate Attributes
- Self-regulated Learning
- Student Development Programmes
- Other Education Innovations

ELIGIBILITY & PARTICIPATION

All full-time undergraduate and postgraduate students studying in Hong Kong higher education institutes are invited to conduct evidence-based projects, such as student exploration of innovative learning opportunities and mini research studies, to inform us their needs, views and ideas on optimal arrangements of university education processes.

Each team should include at least two students and one academic or professional staff member as adviser and contact person.

PROPOSAL SUBMISSION DEADLINE

A one-page proposal should be submitted by 8 January 2021

The Champion team will receive
HKD 10,000 cash award

Up to eight awards are open for competition
